Course begins Online January 23, 2010!

Earn from one hour up to three hours recertification credit learning to understand and to challenge the gifted and talented students in your classes or in your school. Join us as we explore the nature and needs of these learners and some strategies to help them maximize their potential. Recent research show that the top 10% of students are not growing at the same rate as the students on the lower end of the spectrum. Help your students rise to the challenge and create in them a love of learning.

Everyone will take the characteristics and needs sessions, but then you can tailor your learning based on your own needs or areas in which to grow. The series has six targeted audiences: administrators, artistic teachers, coordinators of gifted and talented programs, general education teachers, guidance counselors, and teachers of gifted and talented students. Most of the requirements are to view the sessions and then respond to questions about the session or how you plan to use the information in your teaching. Come on and add some more tools to your teaching toolbox to challenge all students!

All class meetings will take place through distance learning. The instructor and participants will communicate via Moodle—the course platform on the Internet. Assignments and discussion forums will be facilitated in Moodle.
